THE SENATE
CANADA

June 14th, 1917.

My dear Sir:-

I enclose a copy of the Debates of the Senate in which you will note a Resolution which I introduced to the House and my speech in regard thereto. I am of the opinion that the present is none too soon to organize some effective means to offset the loss of hundreds of millions of dollars annually now coming to this Country for extraordinary export orders for war material and which will not continue after the war. A sudden stoppage of these orders will cause a serious situation unless some definite and central methods are employed to make provision to at least minimize the ill effects.

I will therefore be obliged for an expression of your views and more particularly for any suggestions that you may make that may be helpful to the Committee appointed in coming to a conclusion in regard to their recommendations.

Yours very truly,

Frederic Nicholls
